“Let us be alert to the season in which we are living. It is the season of the Blessed Hope, calling for us to cut our ties with the world and build ourselves on this One who will soon appear. He is our hope—a Blessed Hope enabling us to rise above our times and fix our gaze upon Him.” Tozer

Pride Marches Canceled, So Joel Osteen Marches With ANTIFA and Black Lives Matter in Houston Instead

By JEFF MAPLES June 3

In the midst of outright chaos across the country in the wake of George Floyd’s death at the hands of a Minneapolis police officer, anarchy has broken out in cities all over the country. Stores are being looted. Buildings are being burnt to the ground. Cops are being murdered. And complete and total destruction is the end goal of far-left activists like Black Lives Matter and ANTIFA who, for the most part, are running the show in these city streets.

Despite the fact that there are a few peaceful protesters, it is undeniable that these protests are not peaceful. And in the midst of the complete and total act of defiance against law and order, anyone in these streets marching with these people should be seen as participants. Their very presence is an act of approval of what is taking place — even if you speak against it.

From a Christian perspective, it is normally best to disassociate from chaotic rebellion against government—especially when the cause has devolved from a righteous movement to an unrighteous power grab with an end goal of the destruction of Western civilization. But, Joel Osteen is not a Christian — so what should we expect?

Joel Osteen — a fake pastor and pretend Christian — has, however, been spotted marching along with these hooligans in the streets of Houston, TX, where his multi-million dollar enterprise is headquartered. Almost exactly a year ago, he was spotted marching with Lady Gaga at a gay pride march. I guess since pride festivals have been canceled, this is second best for him. At least he’s wearing a mask.

Noah’s Day in Microcosm

By Terry James June 2

Violence once again has reared its ugly head. It seems more and more that times like Noah’s can be observed in America, supposedly the most civilized nation of the West.

Of course, that perception is only shared by those who look at life around them with Pollyanna-ish delusion. Bless them; they see through eyes affixed on the good old days, not on the days as they are. They choose not to see that society and culture have changed—and not for the better.

The Lord Jesus Christ said: “And as it was in the days of Noah so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man” (Luke 17:26).

He went on to list all the things people will be doing when He next makes His presence known to the whole world. He foretold that mankind will be buying, selling, planting, building, marrying—doing all the things of life. The people alive at the time He next appears will be engaging in business as usual, for the most part.

I believe the prophecy indicates that few will pay attention to the true chaos going on when those of that generation are so busy with the daily activities of life.

Genesis 6 (which describes Noah’s day) gives us this prophetic signal Jesus said will be prevalent when He returns at the Rapture and, for that matter, at His Second Advent:

The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth. And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth. (Genesis 6:11–13)

So there will be the two Americas at the time—if we consider America will still be a national entity. One side of America will be doing all the things of life—buying, selling, building, marrying, etc. The other side will be filled with violence, debauchery—evil of many sorts, like in Noah’s day.

Violence erupted once again in the streets of one of our larger cities on May 27 when a police officer appeared on video to literally murder a man he had in custody. Three other officers held off a crowd of people who shouted for the policeman to let the man breathe.

The man being held, an African-American who was arrested for trying to pass a counterfeit $20 bill, died of suffocation.

The officer will almost certainly be tried for the man’s death, and all four officers involved were instantly fired when the Minneapolis police chief watched the video.

The incident, as we all know, led to rioters and looters burning up police precinct buildings and stealing merchandise from several stores the looters had broken into.

Across the nation, in other large cities, rioters and professional anarchists like the thugs of Black Lives Matter set fires and damaged vehicles and businesses. It was all reminiscent of similar anarchy like in Ferguson, Missouri, Watts, and other such violent rampages of the distant and recent past.

America, as life is currently unfolding, could be seen as the days of Noah in microcosm.

The evil perpetrated by the rogue police officer, if things turn out to be the murder of his victim, the purveyors of violence such as the rioters and looters—and the terrors inflicted by the paid-for thugs who carryout anarchy to damage the nation, can’t be missed, even by the Pollyanna-ish among us. And, we should consider whether the COVID-19 pandemic, or coronavirus, or Wuhan virus, or whatever you want to call it, might have been allowed to wake this generation to the fact we are in times that signal Christ’s imminent intervention.

This pandemic has brought things to a standstill and made people take time to see, through fear-filled eyes, that carrying on life as usual in the most comfort-filled nation in the world has changed. Perhaps it is a supreme act of love from on high, forewarning that the most momentous event since Christ’s resurrection is on the verge of bringing the promised moment of the Rapture.

Your 'Immunity Passport' Future Begins - Airlines Call For Digital ID Tracking

News Image BY DERRICK BROZE/ACTIVIST POST JUNE 01

The International Air Transport Association (IATA), which represents 299 airlines, recently issued their publication, Biosecurity for Air Transport A Roadmap for Restarting Aviation, which outlines their strategy to open up air travel as governments begin to lift travel restrictions.

Under a section titled, "The passenger experience" and "Temporary biosecurity measures," the IATA describes their vision of post-COVID-19 flights. The organization calls for contact tracing, a controversial method of tracking the civilian population to track the spread of COVID-19.

"We foresee the need to collect more detailed passenger contact information which can be used for tracing purposes," the report states. "Where possible, the data should be collected in electronic form, and in advance of the passenger arriving at the airport including through eVisa and electronic travel authorization platforms."

Interestingly, this call for pre-boarding check-in using "electronic travel authorization platforms" coincides with the recent announcement of the Covi-Pass and the Health Pass from Clear, both of which call for a digital ID system using biometrics and storing travel, health, and identification data.

Alexandre de Juniac, IATA's CEO, told Arabian Industry that "a layered approach" combining multiple measures which are "globally implemented and mutually recognized by governments" are "the way forward for biosecurity."

The IATA also calls for temperature screening at entry points to airport terminals. They envision the airline experience involving physical distancing of 3-6 feet throughout the airport. The group believes changes to the airport buildings to allow for physical distancing may be necessary. The IATA also recommended "face coverings" for passengers and protective equipment for airline and airport staff.

Although the organization acknowledged that there is not currently a fast reliable test for COVID-19, they believe that once an effective test is developed it could be applied on entry to the terminal. They call for this measure to be "incorporated into the passenger process as soon as an effective test, validated by the medical community, has been developed."

On the topic of immunity passports -- an idea discussed by Anthony Fauci, the World Health Organization, and Bill Gates -- the IATA states that "immunity passports could play an important role in further facilitating the restart of air travel."

The organization believes that if a person is shown to have recovered from COVID-19 and developed immunity they will not need protective measures. Once medical evidence supports the possibility of immunity to COVID-19, IATA believes "it is essential that a recognized global standard be introduced, and that corresponding documents be made available electronically."

Finally, the IATA believes a "general move towards greater use of touchless technology and biometrics should also be pursued." Biometrics would include facial recognition, retina scanning, and/or thumbprints.

This vision painted by the IATA is one where those who choose to fly are faced with invasive security measures, surveillance, biometric tracking, immunity passports, temperature screenings, and generally, less human contact due to physical distancing and less communication with actual people.

Of course, this push towards a digital ID which contains an individual's personal identifying information, health records, and other personal data is part of an agenda which predates COVID-19.

The "powers that wish they were" are taking every opportunity to expand their technocratic control grid and the panic caused by COVID-19 allows them to accelerate their plans at a rate not seen since the days after the attacks of September 11, 2001.

Turkey creeps toward Temple Mount, inaugurates new center in Jerusalem

The center is a kind of guest house, featuring a restaurant and cafe. It proudly features the flags of Turkey and the Palestinian Authority.

By David Isaac, World Israel News

Turkey has inaugurated a building it has renovated as an activity center on a street near the Temple Mount, Israel Hayom reports on Wednesday.

The center is a kind of guest house, featuring a restaurant and cafe.

The new center features the Turkish and Palestinian flags, pictures of Turkish President Recep Erdogan and Ottoman Sultan Abdul Hamid II, the latter likely due to his resistance to Zionist efforts to rebuild the Land of Israel then under Ottoman control. Also at the center are books available to guests on the "true inheritance" of Jerusalem and Al-Aqsa, according to Israel Hayom.

A film is projected at the center featuring Erdogan speaking about "occupied Jerusalem."

The renovations were carried out by the Turkish-government funded Cooperation and Coordination Agency, also known as TIKA. TIKA has invested millions of dollars into 63 different projects "defending and strengthening the Muslim heritage and character of Jerusalem" since 2004.

The paper says that Amir Abu Hadjee, who runs the center, posted on social media several years ago items that identified with the head of the Northern Branch of the Islamic Movement, which was outlawed by Israel in 2015 for criminal activities and its support for Hamas. He also posted an illustration of Hamas leader Sheikh Ahmed Yassin, who was assassinated by Israel in 2004.

Dr. Mordechai Kedar, who reported on the new center, says it's a foothold of revolutionary Islam in the heart of Jerusalem, Israel Hayom reports.

"This is how they buy the public with a big Turkish embrace, through business, tourists and money," Kedar said.

The center "embodies the spirit of the Muslim Brotherhood coalition, which Erdogan leads, against the Muslim regimes like Saudi Arabia or Jordan, which now find themselves in retreat and weakened in Jerusalem."

Israel Hayom reported on Monday that since December, Israel and Saudi Arabia have been conducting secret talks concerning giving the Saudis a presence on the Temple Mount.

Jordan, which is in charge of Muslim buildings on the Temple Mount, wants Saudi support to help fend off the challenge from Turkey to its authority in Jerusalem.

What Is Meant by 'Watcher on the Wall'?

By Don Twobears May 31,

Just wondering here, my Friends, how are we doing nowadays? Do you feel the Rapture of the church of Jesus Christ even closer than days before? How many are "Watchers on the Wall," and are we telling others that are lost of the coming Rapture?

Are we watching the current natural events and seeing the soon Blessed event being ever clearer? I'm not that sure, to be very honest. Please recall what is said in God's Holy Word the Bible about the times of Noah, because we will soon be lulling in sleep. How many will be able to see the 'Signs and Wonders'? How many will be deceived by the soft complexion of life at the time of the Rapture?

Matthew 24:37-39 "But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be."

Is this evidence of how we will be when Jesus Christ returns for those that love HIM? All the people in Noah's days were going about their daily lives as if nothing was wrong or different from any other day. Am I correct? We will be doing all the daily things that we enjoy, except for those Watching on the wall, who know what is about to take place. God's Holy Word does NOT lie; it speaks the absolute truth. We must be prepared; we must be watching steadfastly for the Lord's return. We need to have our lives and our hearts prepared to meet HIM. This, my friends, is what HE expects of us!

What do you think about the "pestilence" all around us?! This is the word used in the Bible for all the disease processes that befall all of mankind. All of the Covid viruses, the Flu of every kind – does this ring a bell with y'all? How about Ebola, the return of TB (Tuberculosis) and the like? Do insects bother you? How about the "Murder Hornets" from Asia, or maybe the Africanized Killer Bees?

How about the receding glaciers and what some like to term Warming of the earth? Does any of this make you think about what is going on here? How are we handling any of this? Are people truly paying any attention, or are they going about their daily lives as if there is nothing to worry about?!

How about younger people having more and more heart attacks that used to be the "bain of the elderly?" More and more people with Cancer, or is this just more of the media hype?

Ephesians 6:12 "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

I am wondering if anyone else is taking the above passage of Scripture seriously?! The "rulers," for example. How many do we see taking advantage of the Citizens of this nation for their own wants and desires, for their own wealth?! Correct me, are they looking to help and promote the people of their districts...or not? Most of all, are they following the "Ten Commandments" as written in God's Holy Word?! Do they or do they not consider themselves to be "honorable"? Wow...what a concept! Am I not correct? All of a sudden Matthew 24:37-39 begins to make more and more sense... Right?!

And so, what happened to the world after the flood? What happened to all prior things? What happened to the violence and degradation? Where were all those people? That's correct...dead. So if the Lord God destroyed them and then HE states things will be the same when HE returns, where will we all be just before the Rapture? Does this make any sense?

My Friends, the Word of God is for the Individual, and it should be read that way! When we read prophecy in the Bible, do you think it would be wise to take it seriously? You know it! Do you believe we are living in the last days? Then we should be watching and waiting for HIS return in the Rapture. Still as yet, we must know and understand, no one knows when the Rapture of Jesus Christ is going to take place!

Romans 13:11 "And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed."

Matthew 16:1-3 "The Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and tempting desired him that he would show them a sign from heaven. He answered and said to them, When it is evening, you say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowering. O you hypocrites, you can discern the face of the sky; but can you not discern the signs of the times?"

Luke 12:35-36 "Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning; And you yourselves like to men that wait for their lord, when he will return from the wedding; that when he comes and knocks, they may open to him immediately."

Revelation 16:15 "Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watches, and keeps his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame."

Once again, my Friends, the Word of God tells us to be prepared, to be Watching and Waiting! The Lord does not desire anyone to be left behind in the Rapture. But...there will be only a FEW going in the Rapture!

Matthew 7:13-14 "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and FEW there be that find it."

I know this... I do NOT want to miss this event... I am going to go in the Rapture! I must prepare my Heart, Soul, and Spirit! I MUST be waiting and Watching! How about YOU?

John 3:16 "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Russia sends second batch of fighter jets to Syria

By REUTERS JUNE 4

MOSCOW - Russia flew a batch of advanced MiG-29 fighter jets to Syria, Moscow's embassy in Damascus said, with Syrian pilots already using the planes to conduct missions within the country's airspace.

President Vladimir Putin last week ordered Russia's foreign and defense ministries to hold talks with its close ally, Syria, to obtain more facilities and maritime access there, in addition to the two military bases it has already. Russia's Embassy in Syria said on Twitter late on Wednesday that the latest batch of planes was for the Syrian military.

"Syrian Arab Army received the second batch of advanced MiG-29 fighter jets from #Russia - in the framework of military & technical cooperation between our countries. Syrian(s) already begin to carry out missions on those planes," it said. It shared a link to a May 30 report by the Syrian Arab News Agency, which cited a Syrian military source as saying the fighters were more effective than their previous generation and would be used in Syrian airspace from June 1.

The United States in late May accused Russia of deploying fighter aircraft via Syria to Libya to support Russian mercenaries fighting for the eastern-based forces of Khalifa Haftar's Libyan National Army (LNA). It said aircraft had arrived in Libya after being repainted to conceal their Russian origin in Syria, stating that the aircraft would likely provide close air support and offensive fire.
