President Erdogan threatens to get involved in Israel war

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan wants to "lead the Muslim world against Israel" so his country can become a "great power", an analyst has told Daily Express US.

Following Hamas' terror attack in Israel on October 7, the IDF has responded with an unrelenting bombing of Gaza.

And while most Western powers have backed Israel's right to defend itself, anger is growing among other countries in the Middle East.

Lebanon-based terror group Hezbollah's leader has vowed to fight to the death for Hamas in a chest-thumping warning to Israel. In response, Israeli President Benjamin Netanyahu has sent a cold-blooded response to Hezbollah war threat.

Simon Waldman, a lecturer in Middle Eastern Studies at King's College London, notes that Erdogan's rhetoric has long-placed Israel as "an aggressor" - and he believes the Turkish leader wants to "lead the Muslim world against Israel".

Erdogan joined the chorus of condemnation directed at Israel this week, saying the country is "completely out of its mind".

It came as Israel has confirmed it struck an ambulance in Gaza after identifying it as "being used by Hamas".

Erdogan added: "I believe that we should stop Israel — which looks as if it's completely out of its mind and lost it — as soon as possible. We will ensure that those responsible for war crimes in Gaza will face justice."

Waldman, an academic at King's College London, told Daily Express US: "When Erdogan came to power, one thing was consistent – his anti-Israel rhetoric.

"This idea that Israel doesn't necessarily have the right to exist, this idea that Israel is always an aggressor and that Turkey needs to stand up to Israel.

"Not only does he say Turkey needs to stand up to Israel, but it needs to be one of the most vocal critics because Erdogan has always wanted Turkey to be a great power. It's his mission to make sure Turkey is an important regional actor and global player.

"One of the ways of doing this is to try and lead the Muslim world against Israel. Sometimes Turkey tries to act as the mediator in these conflicts, but it has never worked.

"There's no room for Turkey in this, it just doesn't have the financial strength of geographical proximity to do this."

Mr Waldman also highlights that protests have sprouted across Turkey, targeting Western embassies and NATO bases.

Erdogan even told Turkish lawmakers: "Hamas is not a terrorist group, it is a group of liberators who protect their land."

Mr Waldman added: "There have been calls in Turkey for protests near NATO bases, also outside of American and Israeli embassies.

"What happened in Dagestan, that can happen in Turkey, the only thing that stops that is that Erdogan knows it would make Turkey look bad.

"But the anger is there. When you see fireworks being thrown at the Israeli consulate building...this kind of hostility can happen in Turkey."

Anti-Israel protests have been seen in predominantly Muslim countries in the Arab world, such as Jordan, Morocco, Bahrain, and Egypt.

Huge pro-Palestine demonstrations have also been seen in Western countries such as the US and UK. In London, a march will take place on November 11 and is expected to have over a million people attending.

Turkey recalls envoy to Israel, 'writes off' Netanyahu

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said he was 'writing off' Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu (YASIN AKGUL)

Turkey said Saturday it was recalling its ambassador to Israel and breaking off contacts with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in protest at the bloodshed in Gaza.

Ankara announced the decisions on the eve of what promises to be a difficult visit to Turkey by US Secretary of State Antony Blinken.

Palestinian ally Turkey had been mending torn relations with Israel until last month's start of the Israel-Hamas war.

Ankara hardened its tone against both Israel and its Western supporters -- particularly the United States -- as the fighting escalated and the death toll among Palestinian civilians soared.

The Turkish foreign ministry said ambassador Sakir Ozkan Torunlar was being recalled for consultations "in view of the unfolding humanitarian tragedy in Gaza caused by the continuing attacks by Israel against civilians, and Israel's refusal (to accept) a ceasefire".

Israeli foreign ministry spokesman Lior Haiat called the move "another step by the Turkish president that sides with the Hamas terrorist organisation".

But Hamas issued a statement hailing the decision and urging Turkey "to put pressure on President (Joe) Biden and his administration" so that "humanitarian and medical help can reach our besieged people in the Gaza Strip".

Israeli forces have encircled Gaza's largest city while trying to crush Hamas in retaliation for October 7 raids into Israel that officials say killed around 1,400 people -- mostly civilians -- and saw some 240 people taken hostage.

The Hamas-run health ministry in Gaza says around 9,500 people -- mostly women and children -- have since been killed in Israeli strikes and the intensifying ground campaign.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan told reporters that he held Netanyahu personally responsible for the growing civilian death toll in the Gaza Strip.

"Netanyahu is no longer someone we can talk to. We have written him off," Turkish media quoted Erdogan as saying.

The Israeli foreign ministry said last weekend it was "re-evaluating" relations with Ankara because of Turkey's increasingly heated rhetoric about the Israel-Hamas war.

It had earlier withdrawn all diplomats from Turkey and other regional countries as a security precaution.

Erdogan said Saturday that Turkey could not afford to entirely break off diplomatic contacts between the sides.

"Completely severing ties is not possible, especially in international diplomacy," Erdogan said.

He said MIT intelligence agency chief Ibrahim Kalin was spearheading Turkey's efforts to try and mediate an end to the war.

"Ibrahim Kalin is talking to the Israeli side. Of course, he is also negotiating with Palestine and Hamas," Erdogan said.

But he said Netanyahu bore primary responsibility for the violence and had "lost the support of his own citizens".

"What he needs to do is take a step back and stop this," Erdogan said.

The Turkish leader had taken a far more cautious tone in the first days of the war.

Israel and Turkey had only last year agreed to reappoint ambassadors after a decade of all but frozen ties.

They were also resuming discussions on a US-backed natural gas pipeline project that could have formed the basis for more lasting cooperation in the coming years.

But Erdogan led a massive rally in Istanbul last weekend at which he accused the Israeli government of behaving like a "war criminal" and trying to "eradicate" Palestinians.

Still more protests will greet Blinken when the top US diplomat begins a two-day visit to Ankara on Sunday that may include talks with Erdogan the following day.

Documentary implicates Schwab, Gates, WHO, UN and other globalist entities in massive crime of ‘democide’

The world must ‘Cut Off the Head of the Snake’ or devolve into a new Dark Age of tyrannical global government

I reported last week on the arrest of a prominent international lawyer who has been investigating and exposing the criminal intent surrounding the unleashing of toxic Covid “vaccines” on the world population.

Today, I discovered another influential man, along with a woman, who might want to watch their backs.

They are Swiss banker Pascal Najadi and Swiss scientist turned WHO-whistleblower Dr. Astrid Stuckelberger.

Najadi is a prominent former Swiss banker who has called for the arrest of corporate elites and unelected globalist bureaucrats over allegations of “democide.”

Pascal Najadi

According to Wikipedia, democide is a term coined by American political scientist Rudolph Rummel to describe “the intentional killing of an unarmed or disarmed person by government agents acting in their authoritative capacity and pursuant to government policy or high command.” This definition covers a wide range of deaths, including mass deaths due to governmental acts of criminal omission and neglect by governments or those with defacto government powers.

Pascal Najadi, a Swiss merchant banker of Persian descent, has joined forces with Dr. Astrid Stuckelberger to demand criminal prosecutions of those behind Big Pharma’s Covid injections, which they describe as “bioweapons.”

They make their case in a new mini documentary titled Cutting off the Head of the Snake.

You can watch a 5-minute clip from the documentary (on Rumble), introduced with a chilling warning from Najadi: “Everything evil in the world as relates to democide, unfortunately, comes from Geneva.”

In the film, Najadi and Stuckelberger pull no punches. They confront the new technocratic dark age being cultivated by an evil host of globalist organizations headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland.

Najadi focuses on the World Economic Forum, which his late father, Hussain Najadi, co-founded along with the globalist German technocrat Klaus Schwab.

Hussain Najadi was assassinated by a gunman in 2013 in Malaysia. His son, Pascal Najadi, became a leading Swiss banker and served as an adviser to global heads of state on financial matters. He continues to wield considerable influence over Switzerland’s political landscape, as evidenced by the fact that he was largely responsible for the recent resignation of Switzerland’s President Alain Berset.

The resignation came after Najadi filed a lawsuit at the Supreme Court of Switzerland against Berset, accusing Berset of making false statements about the safety and efficacy of Covid mRNA injections.

In the documentary, Najadi reveals his late father's utter disdain for the Geneva-based World Economic Forum that he helped found in 1971 along with Klaus Schwab. His father left the organization in the early 1980s, and Schwab has run it ever since under the initial tutelage of Dr. Henry Kissinger.

Pascal Najadi said:

"Everything evil in the world related to democide unfortunately comes from Geneva. You have WHO [World Health Organization] in Geneva, you have GAVI [Bill Gates's Global Vaccine Alliance], then you have the WEF, which my father was a co-founder and left Klaus Schwab out of disgust in the early 80s that has diplomatic immunity."

He added that:

"I, as a Swiss citizen right here, now declare that the WEF is not eligible anymore for diplomatic immunity."

In the documentary, Najadi urges Swiss authorities to arrest those responsible for advocating a "global humanity injection by a bioweapon."

This includes the CEOs and top leaders within Big Pharma, Big Tech, Bill Gates, the WEF, the WHO, and other globalist predators.

In fact, Najadi says he, at the age of 56, and his mother are victims of these bioweapons. He says they are both dying after receiving the injections.

"I call on the Swiss authorities and security to arrest those people immediately. Why? The WEF, WHO, GAVI, Big Pharma, Big Tech, and Bill Gates all advocated a global humanity injection by a bioweapon injecting lipid nanoparticles into 5.7 billion people."

"And we Swiss are hosting them. That's terrible.

"We cannot tolerate any entity that promotes poison to be injected into humanity.

"But you have done it. I'm the victim.

"I'm dying from it, and my mother, too.

"It's a democide and will be judged," he added. "It will be corrected, in the name of humanity."

The documentary then switches to Dr. Stuckelberger, who discusses the role of the United Nations in leading the world into global government in partnership with nefarious groups like the WEF, GAVI and the WHO.

Most people inside the United Nations aren't aware of its purpose, and those who are aware "keep quiet" out of fear, she said. She says the silence is catastrophic for world freedom and calls for both global awareness and action.

Stuckelberger says the Swiss government granted immunity to Bill Gates's Global Alliance for Vaccine Immunization, or GAVI.

GAVI has been funded to the tune of $8.8 billion by more than 50 governments and organizations around the world. Even former President Donald Trump sent the globalist organization hundreds of millions of dollars in 2020.

The U.K. government is the world's largest donor to GAVI and in June 2020 it committed to giving more than $2 billion over the five-year period through 2025. Representatives from both the Chinese government and the World Health Organization were present at the kickoff event, which also saw a surprise appearance by U.S. President Donald Trump, who said he was persuaded to join the GAVI initiative by UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson.

Dr. Stuckelberger described the push to vaccinate the world with Covid injections as a global coup d'état.

"We are trying to build a 'We the People' movement that is very global, something completely different," Stuckelberger says. "But what is going on in Geneva is the opposite."

At the moment, she said, "there is no right to the WHO to give any orders, to dictate to the whole world like they have done. And the Global Alliance for Vaccine Immunization (GAVI) got total immunity from the Swiss government."

"This is coup d'état. Clearly, it's a global crime scene, and we are bringing little pieces of evidence to people with humility. Because in science you always have a doubt. It's a healthy doubt, and I think that is a very important attitude."

Their call to action is clear and resonates throughout the documentary: for individuals to stand up, seek the truth, and challenge the status quo, under the banner of guarding humanity against the present and clear danger stemming from Geneva.

They say it will take a collective awakening, urging the masses to rise up against the injustices perpetuated by unelected globalists.
